Dear Mr.:

Please find attached my curriculum vitae. I would like to tell you a bit more about myself apart from my qualifications in order to convince you that I would be an appropriate candidate.

I consider myself a web designer, a writer and a specialist in Web 2.0, so I'm able to make the most out of the tools which are available on the cloud. Amongst these tools I include content management systems such as Joomla or Wordpress, a professional use of social networks such as Twitter, Flickr, Facebook or Google+, or monitoring tools like Google Analytics or Seo Power Suite. I have also specialised considerably in design, as I believe that good content must be accompanied by appropriate user-friendly surroundings. Inadequate presentation can cause even the best information to go unread!

I am a great lover of new technologies, of the Internet, of mobile communication, of free software and of information systems in general. I am interested in innovation and the latest news in these fields, which allows me to always be up to date, sine qua non for this job. For these reasons, as long as you consider it necessary, I feel that I am a suitable candidate for a position in your company.

Thank you very much.

Yours sincerely
